DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

On 13 June 2005, applicant cancelled claims 30-37 and 39-51. Applicant added claims 91-148.

The introduction of new claims necessitates the Election Restrictions Requirement that follows. The new claims also appear to be directed to invention(s) that are independent or distinct from the invention originally presented for reasons explained below.

Election/Restrictions Requirement

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

Invention I. Claims 91-113, drawn to methods of providing a money transfer service between first party and a second party through a payment enabler system, classified in class 705, subclass 75.

Invention II. Claims 114-130, drawn to methods for making an online payment from a first party to a second party through a payment enabler system, classified in class 705, subclass 64.

Invention III. Claims 115-148, drawn to methods for enabling a first party to request and receive an online payment from a second party through a payment enabler system, classified in class 705, subclass 75.

Inventions I and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)).

In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because Invention I requires

(a) maintaining at the payment enabler system a database of registered users that have registered with the payment enabler system, the database comprising a plurality of records that include an email address and other account information including a default payment method and a default money receiving method;

The subcombination has separate utility such as

(e) in response to a determination that the second party, has no entry in the registered users database, receiving security information from the first party including predetermined expected information for purposes authenticating the second party for receiving the payment;

(f) in response to receipt of the security information from the first party, sending the second party a registration invitation email utilizing the retrieved email address to notify the second party that a payment is pending and instructing the second party to register with the payment enabler system by accessing the payment enabler system;

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Inventions I and III are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

In the instant case, invention I has separate utility such as

(a) maintaining at the payment enabler system a database of registered users that have registered with the payment enabler system, the database comprising a plurality of records that include an email address and other account information including a default payment method and a default money receiving method;

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter and the search required for one is not required for the other, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Inventions II and III are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

In the instant case, invention II has separate utility such as

(e) in response to a determination that the second party, has no entry in the registered users database, receiving security information from the first party including predetermined expected information for purposes authenticating the second party for receiving the payment;

(f) in response to receipt of the security information from the first party, sending the second party a registration invitation email utilizing the retrieved email address to notify the second party that a payment is pending and instructing the second party to register with the payment enabler system by accessing the payment enabler system;

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

This application also contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention:

Art Unit: 3625

If applicant chooses Invention I, the applicant must select one of the following species. Claim 91 is generic.

I.a	91, 92, 93	I.j	91, 103

III.l	114, 145
III.m	114, 146, 147
III.n	114, 146, 148

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable.

A reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.
